

Networks of support: Civil society's role in integrating international students in Japan and Australia

18 May 2023

00:52:34 Akiyoshi Yonezawa: Do you see differences between the Chinese, who are the largest student group in both AUS and JP, and other international students?

I think the invisible and not vocal involvement of students in Japan is true. However, there are differences between different institutions and even within an institution. Is there any possibility that the difference in the structure of the higher education system between AUS and JP has an impact on your findings?

00:55:31 Roopa Trilokekar: I was curious re the last two points on the last slide...how and what forms of new organizations got formed and why in your opinion were IS reaching out to them -outside the university sector....and what are her conclusions re social capital framework and the role of civil societies in this context

00:58:29 Zachery Spire: Thank you for your work Polina. May I propose two questions:

Can you discuss how you approach the ethical issues that arose from framing your study and findings through a social capital lens? Do you think universities and non-university groups have a responsibility to explore and redress these? If so, how so?

Additionally, do you have any top issues that drove attitudes and perceptions of the shift from material to digital and a drive to recover use of material spaces?

Thank you!

01:00:31 Roopa Trilokekar: Thanks much POLina...very interesting work!

01:07:27 CGHE Webinars: Thank you for joining us today. A recording of this session will be posted on the CGHE site: <https://www.researchcghe.org/events/cghe-seminar/networks-of-support-civil-societys-role-in-integrating-international-students-in-japan-and-australia/>

01:07:53 CGHE Webinars: Our next webinar, 'The contributions of study abroad to home countries: An agential perspective', will take place on Tuesday 30 May from 2pm

(UK). You can register here: <https://www.researchcghe.org/events/cghe-seminar/the-contributions-of-study-abroad-to-home-countries-an-agential-perspective/>

01:17:53 Zachery Spire: Thanks so much!

01:18:11 Francisca Da Gama: Thank you!

01:18:47 CGHE Webinars: Conference info:
<https://researchcghe.org/events/cghe-annual-conference/cghe-annual-conference-2023-from-higher-to-tertiary-democratising-post-school-education/>